Explainer: Why is China staging drills around Taiwan?

AP BEUNG

AP BEUNG

This is staging live-fire military drills in six self-declared zones surrounding Taiwan in response to a visit by U.S. House Speaker Nancy Pelosi to the island Beijing claims as its own territory. China has warred aircraft and ships to avoid the areas during the exercises, which run through Sunday. The drill suppear to be a rehearsal for a potential blockade and invasion of the island that would almost certainly draw in Taiwan's chief supporter, the United States, along with American allicinchding Japan and Australia.

China's 2 million-strong military is the world's largest and its navy has more ships than the U.S. Taiwan's amed forces can't compare in numbers, but it has vowed to resist coercive measures to impose tensions.

What is China doing in seas and skies around Taiwan?

China says it has begun exercises involving warplanes, navyships and missile strikes in six zones surrounding Taiwan. Those lie as little as 20 kilometers (12 miles) off the island's coast, potentially infringing on Taiwan's territorial waters.

Few details have been given by Beijing, but it has described the drills as punishment for the U.S. Allowing Pelosi's visit to proceed, even though President Joe Biden did not have the authority to prevent her travelling to the island.

China insists that Taiwan accept its contention that the island is a part of China, whose sole legitimate government sits in Beijing. In the face of China's military threats and relentless campaign to isolate Taiwan diplomatically, islanders overwhelmingly support the statuy on of de facto independence.

That sentiment has been further reinforced by Beijing's ruthless crackdown on political rights and free speech in Hong Kong, which China has long touted as a model for its future governance of Taiwan. What has been the response from Taiwan and the U.S.?

Analysis: Iran now speaking openly on N-bomb prospects

Tranian officials now speak openly about something long denied by Tehran as it enriches uranium at its closest-ever levels to weapons-grade material: The Islamic Republic is ready to build an atomic weapon at will.

The remarks could be bluster to force more bargaining-table concessions from the U.S. Without planning to seek the bomb. Or, as analysts warn, tran could reach a point like North Korea did some 20 years ago where it decides having the ultimate weapon outweighs any further international sanctions.

All this could be put to the test Thursday as Iran, the U.S. And the European Union pre-pare for a snap summit that appears to be a last-ditch effort in Vienna to revive Tehran's tattered ditch eitort in Vienna to revive lehrans tattered nuclear deal amid the new pressure. That includes one Iranian video online suggesting the country's ballistic missiles could "turn New York into a heap of rubble from hell."

Hyperbole aside, the language taken as a whole narks a distinct verbal escalation from
